Dear Daddy. This is the Fraser River near Mission Junction - pretty neat it.
The river is very much wider than it looks in the photo - the land on the right hand side of the photo is an island - It looks different now. Most of the trees are devoid of leaves and the mountains covered with their winter blanket of snow. Mission City is just a little country village where the Canadian Pacific Railway has branches South to Sumas - the border town between Canada and the United States on this route - Its difficult to get nice post cards - & news is scarce still - but because of that don't forget to write I like to hear of dress making or anything - Yours true as of interest in this abomination of desolation.
With all sorts of good wishes for the coming year & with true love from Harold.
